

Rancho El Refugio Ecológico

San Dionisio Canyon, Sierra de la Laguna Mountains, BCS, Mexico

Accommodations - Glamping

We offer five glamping tents ranging from 4 to 6 meters. The larger 5m and 6m tents are ideal for 2–3 guests and include 2–3 beds with memory foam mattresses on bedframes (twin, double and queen beds). Each tent comes with floor coverings, pillows, fresh linens, cozy bed coverings, and towels. Lighting is solar-powered, and Wi-Fi is limited and available by donation.

The Organic Ranch – Meals, Snacks and Beverages

Meals and snacks are freshly prepared using ingredients from the abundant organic gardens and raised on the ranch. You are invited to join Rogelio—the beating heart of this land—in gathering what’s needed for the next meal. Beverages begin with mountain water drawn from the well, infused with fresh herbs and fruits picked just steps away. Over 300 fruit trees and thriving vegetable gardens, sustainability here isn’t a trend—it’s an inherited rhythm of life, rooted in generations of living close to the earth.

Ranch Experience - Common Areas

Getting to the ranch can be challenging. If you lack light off-road driving experience, we recommend arranging hired transportation. Once here, life slows to a gentle rhythm. The energy is laid-back and tranquil, with the whispers of the mountains, winding nature trails, the mountain río, and gardens brimming with fruits and vegetables. Common areas include three outdoor dining spaces—two shaded by palapas—plus open-air cooking facilities, bathrooms and showers with running water.

Activities – Traditional Living, Cooking and Exploring Nature

The family warmly invites you to step into their world, where each activity and workshop is a living thread in the tapestry of mountain life. Knead warm dough for tortillas and empanadas, assist in preparing the days meals, shape supple leather into timeless crafts, weave baskets with palms from the ranch, and explore medicinal plants steeped in tradition. Hike to ancient cave paintings, birdwatch, and follow the río through the rugged mountain landscape—each experience revealing the enduring spirit and heritage of the mountain vaqueros.

The experience is raw, culturally rooted, and humbly authentic.
